

Professional Bio

Neha Banerjee is a legal professional at the Centre for WTO Studies, with a focus on international law and policy, particularly trade and sustainability, FTAs, trade remedies, and WTO-related issues. She has contributed to FTA negotiations, policy research, and legal analysis on emerging trade and sustainability measures, including carbon-related regulations, environmental measures, labour, gender, and MSMEs. She holds an LL.M. in International & Comparative Laws from WBNUJS, Kolkata.